

Statement by EPA Acting Regional Administrator Walter Mugdan on Limetree Bay Monitoring

5/5/2021

EPA is encouraged by Limetree Bay's decision to re-establish the sulfur dioxide monitoring stations around its facility. EPA will stay in close contact with the company as it works to activate the monitors. EPA also is exploring how it can support or augment monitoring in the interim. Monitoring is particularly important for this community given the continuing reports of odors near the facility.
